9FVOAN - ROMAN MORIAH

The Federal Court five-member panel led by former Chief Justice Tun Md Raus Sharif had in 2015 set aside the Court of Appeal's declaration that Section 66 of the Negri Sembilan Shariah Criminal Enactment penalising cross-dressers, was unconstitutional.

The high court's ruling is a major victory for religious groups and the American Legion, which warned that if this cross had to be moved, so, too, would other crosses that serve as war memorials.

Today, the United States Supreme Court ruled that the Bladenburg "Peace Cross" does not violate the Constitution. Seven Justices agreed with that result and only two – Ginsburg and Sotomayor – disagreed.

The Supreme Court heard oral argument yesterday in American Legion v. American Humanist Association, which is an Establishment Clause challenge to a 94-year-old cross memorializing World War I veterans. After argument, it seems likely the Court will uphold the cross.

The Court and the Cross On November 27, 2018, I posted an article entitled "The Atheists vs the Cross". The American Humanist Association had challenged the "Peace Cross" in Bladensburg, Maryland, a monument erected in 1925 to honor men from Prince Georges County who died in the Great War.

The Court Should Tear Down Everson, Not the Maryland Cross

The Supreme Court's oral argument about that cross reflected the Court's ongoing disagreement about what the Establishment Clause allows and forbids. The Establishment Clause states "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion." The Supreme Court has ruled that states must obey it too.

The Rainbow and the Cross at the Supreme Court June 15, 2020 On Monday, the Supreme Court handed down its decision in Bostock v. Clayton County, Georgia, holding by a 6-3 majority that the prohibition on sex discrimination under Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act includes discrimination against LGBTQ+ employees.

The court has upheld the public display of religious symbols before: a Nativity scene in the company of candy canes and reindeer in a city park and a Ten Commandments on a monolith on the grounds of the Texas State Capitol surrounded by many other historic monuments. It has never upheld a solitary Latin cross, let alone one four stories high.
