Setting up happiness as a goal to be achieved doesn't really work because circumstances can always be made better or worse. It's not like there is a promised land, a finish line where from there on out you can finally be happy. Happiness is based on perception, so regardless of your situation you can achieve it right now.

Happiness is Based on Perception - Evolution Counseling

For Aristotle, however, happiness is a final end or goal that encompasses the totality of one's life. It is not something that can be gained or lost in a few hours, like pleasurable sensations. It is more like the ultimate value of your life as lived up to this moment, measuring how well you have lived up to your full potential as a human being.
